Flashfloods damage culverts, roads, water supply pipelines in Kullu's Sainj

OUR CORRESPONDENT

KULLU, SEPTEMBER 18

Flashfloods have left many culverts and damaged footpaths and drinking water schemes in the Nakain assembly area of Sackhelar panchayat of Sainj in Kullu district on Friday. The movement of villagers has been badly affected and the panchayat president has urged the administration to undertake essential services at the earliest.

The disaster struck after sudden heavy rainfall as flashwater and debris surged through several parts of the area. The rising water carried stones, mud and other debris, disrupting the movement of local residents. Footpaths connecting villages were also damaged. Flashwater damaged the pipelines of several drinking water schemes in the region. With pipelines broken, the residents face a drinking water crisis in the coming days. According to local people, the sudden rush of water gave them no time to react.

Roads and link routes to several places were affected as a large amount of debris came with flashwater. After the flashfloods, the natural shape of the Nakain assembly changed. Heavy debris accumulated in the waterfall area due to the strong current. The movement of villagers in the affected area has become difficult.

Between 15 and 16 villages are being hamlet-wise, especially after footpaths and culverts washed away in flashfloods. Dharampal Thakur, president of Sackhelar panchayat, urged the administration to inspect the affected area soon to assess the damage caused by flashfloods. He said that heavy rain and flashfloods caused extensive damage to culverts, footpaths and drinking water schemes. The administration should send a team to the affected area in the week of the extreme flow, he added.

Thakur said that damaged culverts, roads and drinking water schemes be restored on a priority.

> This marks recent days by flashfloods seen in the Nakain assembly area of Sackhelar panchayat of Sainj in Kullu district on Friday.
